

The Sterling In 1899, Sterling bikes were announced to be sold by the "American Bicycle Co", a consortium of 44 American bike and bike part manufacturers. Through ingenuity and determination, Sterling came to represent the American spirit of the personal exploration of our great outdoors.

Similarly, the Sterling by MossCreek, uses architectural elements from our past to create a home that celebrates American's desire to look forward into our great landscape. The Sterling features 3 bedrooms, 3 baths, and open living space, all in a compact footprint. Best of all, the Sterling is outfitted with a spacious outdoor living area with fireplace, so you can begin your outdoor exploration from the comfort of a soft chair.
